Question 3: Mark comes to your office to talk to you about an idea he has. He tells you that he does not have cash to pay you but if you help him, he will compensate you with equity in the company. He talks about a crazy website where individuals can talk to each other online and socialize, something called “Facebook”. Knowing that the technology industry is booming, you agree. Mark asks you that he needs to form a business entity for his business idea. He wants a company that can grow as big as it needs to, Mark has big dreams that the company will one day be a multi-billion-dollar company. Mark also wants to be able to get as much funding and investors as possible. He wants the most liability protection possible, mostly since he predicts millions of users. Mark is not that concerned about taxes because he believes companies should give as much profits back to the community. Which business entity would you recommend for Mark? And why? Be as specific as possible. (no IRAC)

REFLECT

- The data indicated that 59% of the students “exceeded expectations”, 21% of the students “meet expectations”, and 9% of the students “Does not meet expectation. The results indicate a good expected outcome.
- Between the two assignments, there is a big difference in the number of students who Do Not Meet Expectation.
- In the Legal Research assignment students rely heavily on google. We currently do not have an effective free legal research website that students can obtain access to.
- In the Business Associations assignment students seem to have a hard time understanding the tax implications.
- In the Business Associations assignment students seems to not mention everything that differentiates their choice.

REFINE

To increase the number of students who exceed expectation (i.e. 85% or higher), I plan to:

- Acquire access to a better legal research software.
- Provide detailed instructions of the assignment with an example.
- Incorporate a library tour to show the students the resources available in the library (legal encyclopedias and online resources).
- Use the Legal Research assignment as a review.
- Show a diagram explaining the different tax implications for the different business entities. Specially LLCs and C-Corp.
