Strategic Plan: Common Measures 2014 Annual Review

Strategic Goal #2: Equity

Objective #1 - Close Achievement Gaps

Measure: Equity Data for Service Area Population (Adults 18-65) vs. Student Population
Explanation: The Proportionality Index is used to assess whether there are achievement gaps between demographic sub-groups such as by gender, age and ethnicity. When evaluating for gaps, a cohort of students is defined and those who achieve the desired outcome are identified. Both the total cohort group and the outcome group are disaggregated into demographic sub-groups. The Proportionality Index is a ratio that compares the percentage of a subgroup in the total cohort to the percentage of the same subgroup in the desired outcome. If the sub-group is equally represented in both the cohort and the outcome group, the results are proportional and disproportionate impact does not exist.

Successful Course Completion is determined by grades as follows: successful grades = A, B, C, and P; denominator = A, B, C, P, D, F, I, NP, W, and DR.
Note: Areas in grey without figures indicate groups where numbers are too small to be meaningful - use the "All Cohorts Combined" columns to assess the group (where available).

Both the total cohort group and the outcome group are disaggregated into demographic sub-groups. The Proportionality Index is a ratio that compares the percentage of a subgroup in the total cohort to the percentage of the same subgroup in the desired outcome. If the sub-group is equally represented in both the cohort and the outcome group, the results are proportional and disproportionate impact does not exist.
Persistence comes from the Student Success Scorecard where first-time students who complete six or more units and attempt any Math or English in their first three years are tracked to see if they attempt a credit course in their first three consecutive primary terms. Results for the most recent five cohorts are shown below.
Note: Areas in grey without figures indicate groups where numbers are too small to be meaningful - use the "All Cohorts Combined" columns to assess the group (where available)

Strategic Plan: Common Measures 2014 Annual Review

Strategic Goal #2: Equity
Objective #1 - Close Achievement Gaps
Measure: Equity Data for 30-Unit Milestone
Explanation: The Proportionality Index is used to assess whether there are achievement gaps between demographic sub-groups such as by gender, age and ethnicity. When evaluating for gaps, a cohort of students is defined and those who achieve the desired outcome are identified. Both the total cohort group and the outcome group are disaggregated into demographic sub-groups. The Proportionality Index is a ratio that compares the percentage of a subgroup in the total cohort to the percentage of the same subgroup in the desired outcome. If the sub-group is equally represented in both the cohort and the outcome group, the results are proportional and disproportionate impact does not exist.
30-Unit Milestone data comes from the Student Success Scorecard where first-time students who complete six or more units and attempt any Math or English in their first three years are tracked for six years to see if they successfully complete at least 30 units. Results for the most recent five cohorts are shown below.
Note: Areas in grey without figures indicate groups where numbers are too small to be meaningful - use the "All Cohorts Combined" columns to assess the group (where available)

Strategic Goal #2: Equity
Objective #1 - Close Achievement Gaps
Measure: Equity Data for Remedial English
Explanation: The Proportionality Index is used to assess whether there are achievement gaps between demographic sub-groups such as by gender, age and ethnicity. When evaluating for gaps, a cohort of students is defined and those who achieve the desired outcome are identified. Both the total cohort group and the outcome group are disaggregated into demographic sub-groups. The Proportionality Index is a ratio that compares the percentage of a subgroup in the total cohort to the percentage of the same subgroup in the desired outcome. If the sub-group is equally represented in both the cohort and the outcome group, the results are proportional and disproportionate impact does not exist.
Remedial English data comes from the Student Success Scorecard where a cohort of students who attempt a Remedial English course is tracked to determine whether they successfully complete a college-level English course within six years. Results for the most recent five cohorts are shown below.
Note: Areas in grey without figures indicate groups where numbers are too small to be meaningful - use the "All Cohorts Combined" columns to assess the group (where available).

Strategic Plan: Common Measures 2014 Annual Review

Strategic Goal #2: Equity

Objective #1 - Close Achievement Gaps

Measure: Equity Data for Remedial Math
Explanation: The Proportionality Index is used to assess whether there are achievement gaps between demographic sub-groups such as by gender, age and ethnicity. When evaluating for gaps, a cohort of students is defined and those who achieve the desired outcome are identified. Both the total cohort group and the outcome group are disaggregated into demographic sub-groups. The Proportionality Index is a ratio that compares the percentage of a subgroup in the total cohort to the percentage of the same subgroup in the desired outcome. If the sub-group is equally represented in both the cohort and the outcome group, the results are proportional and disproportionate impact does not exist.
Remedial Math data comes from the Student Success Scorecard where a cohort of students who attempt a Remedial Math course is tracked to determine whether they successfully complete a college-level English course within six years. Results for the most recent five cohorts are shown below.
Note: Areas in grey without figures indicate groups where numbers are too small to be meaningful - use the "All Cohorts Combined" columns to assess the group (where available)

Explanation: The Proportionality Index is used to assess whether there are achievement gaps between demographic sub-groups such as by gender, age and ethnicity. When evaluating for gaps, a cohort of students is defined and those who achieve the desired outcome are identified. Both the total cohort group and the outcome group are disaggregated into demographic sub-groups. The Proportionality Index is a ratio that compares the percentage of a subgroup in the total cohort to the percentage of the same subgroup in the desired outcome. If the sub-group is equally represented in both the cohort and the outcome group, the results are proportional and disproportionate impact does not exist.
Degree/Certificate Completion data comes from the Student Success Scorecard where first-time students who complete six or more units and attempt any Math or English in their first three years are tracked for six years to see if they earn a Certificate or Degree. Results for the most recent five cohorts are shown below.

Strategic Plan: Common Measures 2014 Annual Review

Strategic Goal #2: Equity

Objective #1 - Close Achievement Gaps

Measure: Equity Data for Transfer-Prepared Students
Explanation: The Proportionality Index is used to assess whether there are achievement gaps between demographic sub-groups such as by gender, age and ethnicity. When evaluating for gaps, a cohort of students is defined and those who achieve the desired outcome are identified. Both the total cohort group and the outcome group are disaggregated into demographic sub-groups. The Proportionality Index is a ratio that compares the percentage of a subgroup in the total cohort to the percentage of the same subgroup in the desired outcome. If the sub-group is equally represented in both the cohort and the outcome group, the results are proportional and disproportionate impact does not exist.
Transfer-prepared data comes from the Student Success Scorecard where first-time students who complete six or more units and attempt any Math or English in their first three years are tracked for six years to see if they become "Transfer Prepared" (completion of 60 UC/CSU transferrable units with a 2.0 GPA or better). Results for the most recent five cohorts are shown below. Note: Areas in grey without figures indicate groups where numbers are too small to be meaningful - use the "All Cohorts Combined" columns to assess the group (where available).

Strategic Plan: Common Measures 2014 Annual Review

Strategic Goal #2: Equity

Objective #1 - Close Achievement Gaps

Measure: Equity Data for Transfers
Explanation: The Proportionality Index is used to assess whether there are achievement gaps between demographic sub-groups such as by gender, age and ethnicity. When evaluating for gaps, a cohort of students is defined and those who achieve the desired outcome are identified. Both the total cohort group and the outcome group are disaggregated into demographic sub-groups. The Proportionality Index is a ratio that compares the percentage of a subgroup in the total cohort to the percentage of the same subgroup in the desired outcome. If the sub-group is equally represented in both the cohort and the outcome group, the results are proportional and disproportionate impact does not exist.
Transfer data comes from the Student Success Scorecard where first-time students who complete six or more units and attempt any Math or English in their first three years are tracked for six years to see if they transfer to a four-year college. Results for the most recent five cohorts are shown below.
Note: Areas in grey without figures indicate groups where numbers are too small to be meaningful - use the "All Cohorts Combined" columns to assess the group (where available)
