

In honor of Black History Month, Bakersfield College hosted several events that celebrated the achievements and contributions of African Americans; and presented several workshops and discussion groups that focused on education, equality, and justice.

The month-long celebration was kicked off with Umoja's 6th Annual Black History Month conference which featured guest speaker Brian E. Sibley and an inspirational live drumming performance. The conference set a celebratory tone for the events that followed, drawing in a large number of students, faculty, and community members eager to engage and learn.
